

Finds from the Oxfordshire Portable Antiquities Scheme

Anni Byard

Hanney History Group will meet the holder of arguably 'the best job in Oxfordshire' on April 23rd, when Anni Byard presents 'Finds' from the Portable Antiquities Scheme. This 1997 legislation tries to ensure all historic items found by members of the public, such as metal detectorists, are shown to the local "Finds Liaison Officer" for identification and recording. Anni is the FLO for Oxfordshire and West Berkshire and has seen some 30,000 artefacts, covering 450,000 years, since 2004! She has a close relationship with the local detectorist community. She will present her selection from these finds, including the famous Anglo-Saxon 'Hanney Brooch', found at a metal detector rally here in 2009, and shown on the cover of her recent book [inset to the right]
