

Chilterns at Work : the Extent of Past Industries.

Speaker : Jill Eyers

The Chilterns landscape is rightly famous for its character and beauty, but we will learn that this is not a natural landscape and reflects the centuries of people working the land and its resources. Jill Eyers will show that looking at the landscape reveals a widespread industrial past. Her talk will explore a rich mixture of work from farming to furniture, from watercress to woodland, brick making to beer and all sorts of quarrying...and even illegal 'trades'. Dr. Eyers started work as a geologist but is now Director of Chiltern Archaeology and is also a part-time lecturer for the Open University and Oxford University Department of Continuing Education. She leads many courses and walks through the Chilterns.
